Welcome to the R1 Fulda Bike Path

„All along the river" is the motto of the R1 Fulda Bike Path, which runs for 255 kilometers from Gersfeld in the Rhön to Bad Karlshafen. And in fact, between the Rhön and the southern Weser Hills, there are many unique natural and cultural experiences to be enjoyed. Calm, lazy sections of the river alternate from romantic half-timbered backdrops to an urban metropolitan flair.

But the R1 Fulda Bike Path is not only an experience for cyclists, because the long-distance bike path is part of a broad network of regional bike paths and thus offers a variety of possibilities for day trips as well.

On the river bike path, you can cycle through the gentle low mountain ranges with almost no inclines. This makes a tour on the R1 Fulda Bike Path well suited for families and pleasure cyclists. The moderate elevations and the numerous possibilities for rest and nourishment invite you to an enjoyable and relaxing ride. More ambitious cyclists are able to find athletic challenges, particularly on the connector of the R1 Fulda Bike Path to the Eder, Weser and Werra Valley Bike Paths.

Discover cycling pleasures in the heart of Germany – the R1 Fulda Bike Path.

from GERSFELD …

Gersfeld Market Square (Rhön)

Enjoying nature and baroque flair

Gersfeld, with its market square lined with half-timbered buildings, offers the ideal starting point for an unforgettable cycling experience through the Fulda valley. The small town is well-known for its Spa facilities and healthy climate. It offers many attractions for adults and children alike. The 50-acre wildlife park, for example, to name just one.

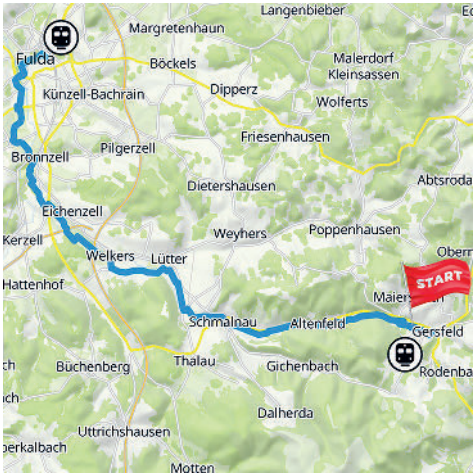

The slightly sloping terrain facilitates a relaxing cycling experience through forests and meadows along the Fulda river. The route is very suitable for beginning riders, families and leisure cyclists.

Charming villages such as the towns of Hettenhausen, Schmalnau, Ried and Eichenzell offer opportunities to stop for a good meal along the way. One of the most beautiful baroque palaces of Hesse is located in Eichenzell, the 18th century Fasanerie Palace. It is definitely worth a stopover, and not just because of their significant collections of antiques and porcelain.

After riding past the district of Löschenrod, the districts of Fulda-Bronnzell and Fulda-Johannesberg with the German Firefighters Museum, you finally reach the beautiful baroque city of Fulda.

Castles, ruins and festivals

The cathedral city of Fulda exudes a very special charm with its baroque district, many churches, the city palace and the lively historic downtown. On partly hilly paths, accompanied by meadows and fields, you reach the foot of the 4-castle city of Schlitz just behind the half-timbered village of Pfordt. From here you ride along the river through very impressive scenery of the Fulda valley.

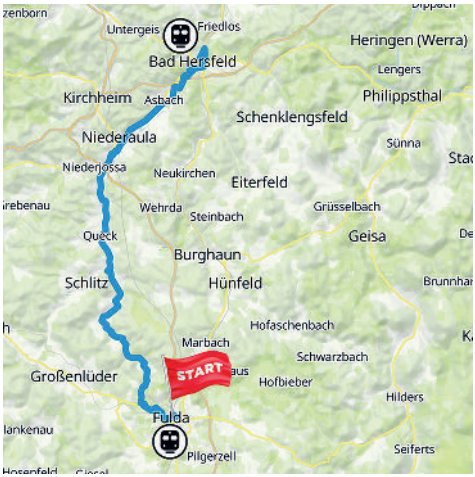

Although the romantic castle town, with its beautiful half-timbered buildings, castle towers and ruins, is not directly on the way, it is well worth a quick side trip.

From Unter-Schwarz, you continue relaxed on the old railway track that has been converted into a bike path. In the Niederaula region, the Lutherweg 1521 (Luther Route 1521) and the Ars Natura art trail runs alongside the R1. Quotes from Konrad Duden and Konrad Zuse make you smile and think. From Niederaula you then cycle on the renovated bike path through the idyllic Fulda valley to Bad Hersfeld.

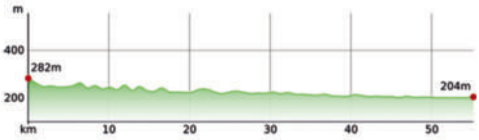

In the ruins of Bad Hersfeld's Abbey, the largest Romanesque church ruins in the world, the popular theatre festival of Bad Hersfeld takes place each summer.

Half-timbered idylls and nature experiences

The R1 inner city route leads through the legendary ambience of the spa and festival town of Bad Hersfeld with its abbey ruins and over 210 listed buildings back to the Fulda R1 Bike Path.

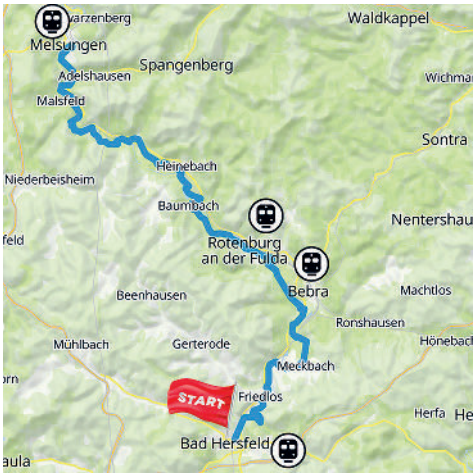

Back at the river you have arrived in the Central Fulda Valley. When the heat is shimmering, you can cool off in the Breitenbacher lakes near the village of Bebra-Breitenbach. Refreshed, the natural journey to the half-timbered jewel of Rotenburg on the Fulda, enchants you. Perfect for a break: Germany's second-longest suspension bridge (617 meters) is just a few minutes by bike from the Fulda Cycle Route R1.

For those who aren't fond of heights, a stop at Haydau Monastery combined with a short walk through the small park is a great option. A most extraordinary experience will be a ride on the bike cable car system, unique in Germany, between Morschen-Binsförth and Malsfeld-Beiseförth. In Beiseförth, Hesse's only wicker making museum is prepared for your visit (with prior arrangement), or even the small, fine brewery museum, on the former premises of the Hessian Löwenbier brewery, to name just a few highlights along the way.

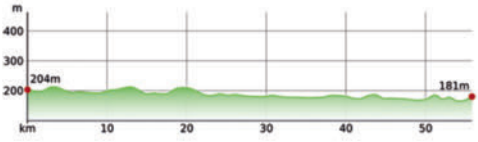

In Melsungen, visitors will find many lovingly decorated half-timbered houses with one half-timbered house in particular designated as the most beautiful in Germany.

World Heritage City and Alexander von Humboldt

From the beautiful half-timbered town of Melsungen, the mostly level route leads on through a wonderful region of meadows and fields. The „Fulda loop" at Büchenwerra is particularly beautiful.

A short trip to the other side of the Fulda to the Nazi memorial in Guxhagen at the Convent of Breitenau is worthwhile. At Edermüde, the R1 Fulda Bike Path meets up with the Eder Bike Path before it splits into two variants to the left and the right of the Fulda, to later reunite in Kassel.

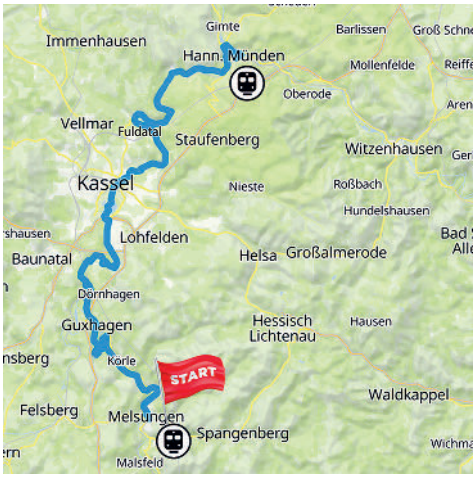

Kassel is ideally suited for a longer stay; for example, to make a side trip to the UNESCO World Heritage Site Bergpark Wilhelmshöhe or to the GRIMMWELT Kassel (the experience world of the brothers Grimm).

The Karlsaue Park with the Orangerie Palace and the Bugasee (lake) recreation area invite you to stay a little longer on the bike path.

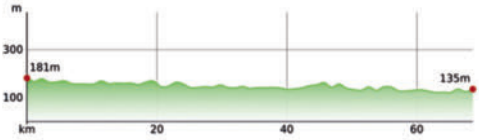

Continue on through the Fulda Valley to the city of Hann. Münden, who Alexander von Humboldt supposedly called a city in one of the most beautiful regions in the world. The Fulda and the Werra „meet and kiss" in this medieval 3-river town, to continue their journey united as the river Weser.

'Kissing' rivers and relaxation

The roughly 700 half-timbered houses that can be found in Hann. Münden create a unique backdrop, with the historic city hall being one of the most important buildings of the Weser Renaissance. From here, the route continues along the Weser river, following the twists and turns of the river, past the Bursfelde monastery and the Lippoldsberg monastery church.

Tip: Here you can reach the other side of the Weser in Hemeln in a most nostalgic way: by using the reaction ferry in Reinhardshagen. A stop at the cult restaurant „Zur Fähre" (the Ferry) is definitely worth your while.

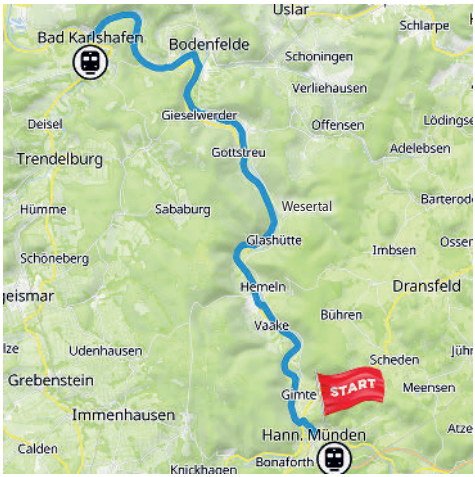

Another popular destination for excursions is the open-air miniature exhibition „Der Mühlenplatz" in Gieselwerder, with its affectionately built replicas of various buildings of the Weser region.

Finally, you arrive in the baroque New Town of Bad Karlshafen, which stands in contrast to the otherwise all-present Weser Renaissance. You may want to enjoy a visit the German Museum of Huguenot here, or maybe the hot-springs spa 'Weser-Therme', where you can unwind and enjoy a relaxing end of the day.
