ADVENTURE IN THE MOUNTAINS
ZERMATT – MATTERHORN.

Winter 2018 / 2019 – Summer 2019
Dear visitors,

Zermatt’s history is inextricably linked with the mountains. A history that starts with the battle against overwhelming nature: farmers endeavour to glean from the steep slopes and short summers what they need to survive the harsh winters. And a history that continues in harmony with nature: tourism pioneers who recognise the beauty and pull of the mountains and who embody a unique hospitality offered to visitors from near and far that continues to this day.

The history of the people of Zermatt is perceptible. Traditions are upheld through customs that are still practised today, and these shape what our holiday resorts have to offer. You can also experience the mountains – the unique natural beauty surrounding the Matterhorn can be accessed from the many kilometres of hiking and biking trails, from climbing routes and cable cars.

We, the people of Zermatt, are proud to be able to give you, dear visitor, a better understanding of our traditions and our home. We look forward to welcoming you.

A warm welcome to the Zermatt – Matterhorn destination!

Historic Highlights
In Zermatt, tradition and history can be experienced at every turn. Here it is possible to live through all the stories, which have been added over the last 150 years – in the old part of the village (Hinterdorf) or during guided village tours.

A few of these highlights:

- The gravestones of many mountaineers, who lost their lives in Zermatt’s mountains, are located in the Mountaineers’ Cemetery. Among them, those of some of the first climbers of the Matterhorn from 14 July 1865. ‘The Grave of the Unknown Climber’ honours the more than 500 missing and dead, who have lost their lives on the Matterhorn since 1865.

- What is called the ‘Walk of Fame’ in Hollywood is called the ‘Walk of Climb’ in Zermatt. On the Bahnhofstrasse near the church, nine bronze markers honour the alpinists, who conquered the Matterhorn in July 1865.

- Memorial markers in the English Church bear witness to the long relationship of British mountaineers to the Zermatt mountain world. And they also show the friendship and triumph as well as death and sadness. Reverend Charles Hudson, who fell to his death after the summit of the Matterhorn was first reached on 14 July 1865, is entombed in the altar.

- The chapel in Findeln is home to a late Gothic winged altar from the early 16th century.

- The church at Randa is registered in the Swiss inventory of cultural treasures of regional importance because of its baroque style (KGS inventory).

- The redesigned Lorihiischi is the village museum in Randa with impressions of the domestic and living culture of the people of the Valais. The earliest sections of it come from the year 1256 with a stable, living space, kitchen and hand work room.

The Matterhorn glacier ride, which has opened in autumn 2018, is the world’s highest-altitude cableway and increases the capacity to transport visitors to Matterhorn glacier paradise (Klein Matterhorn) by 2,000 passengers per hour. The Crystal ride cabins only betray their innermost secrets after three minutes’ travelling, however, when their glass floors reveal the view of the Theodul glacier, 170 metres below. The other cabins, which all seat 28, also offer an unusual ride. Around 70 mountain guides lead guests from around the world up the four thousand-metre peaks around Zermatt, Täsch and Randa. In summer on high-Alpine climbing tours; in winter, on ski tours or heliskiing. They are known for their prudence and calm, for their integrity towards the mountains, nature and of course their guests. They take care of their guests through a friendship lasting many years and extending beyond national borders to all of the continents.

They also extend their Alpine competence out into the world – as professional mountaineers, mountain guides, mountain rescuers and trainers of young talent in all matters related to high-Alpine activities from Switzerland to the Himalayas.

Many of the mountain guides belong to a pool of mountain rescuers, who bring people quick and competent to safety when they got in an emergency in the Valais mountains.

THE RIDGE TRAIL.
Along the ridge trail, you discover the five different valleys that surround Zermatt in individual stages, which can be combined with various mountain huts. There are also different trail variations possible while underway.

84 km different stages possible

TOUR MATTERHORN.
A challenging walk around the Matterhorn. High up in open country past the Alpine giants of the ‘Couronne Imperial’. The fascination of three language cultures. www.tourducervin.ch

approx. 150 km 9 stages

TOUR MONTE ROSA – MATTERHORN.
A fantastic ridgeway walk around Monte Rosa in sight of the majestic Matterhorn. In nine daily stages in intact surroundings meeting the history of Valais along the way and savouring the marvellous variety of specialities the region has to offer. www.tmr-matterhorn.ch

approx. 190 km 9 stages

For both tours, there are hiking guides available at the Tourist Office.
In the Middle of 38 Four Thousand-Metre Peaks
Nowhere are the mountains so high and the access so easy. Around Zermatt, Täsch and Randa tower 38 mountain giants all over 4,000 m high. With famous peaks such as the Matterhorn, Weisshorn and the Dufourspitze, a paradise lies in front of Alpinists. Whether a light climb or a more challenging traversal – the experience on the summit is never forgotten: the head in outer space and far down below, the miniature little village. In spring, high tours lure them, sometimes even with a side trip into Italy by choice.

The Breithorn (4,164 m) is the easiest four thousand-metre peak in the Alps reached by the highest mountain lift station in Europe, Matterhorn glacier paradise (3,883 m). Despite this, a mountain guide is recommended because this is glacier territory with glacier crevasses.

Compatible with the Breithorn Tour on page 71.

SUMMER ACTIVITIES.

Visit of the chapels in Zermatt, Täsch, Randa
In the resort, more than a dozen Täsch and houses of worship bear witness to the locals’ piety. Many families lived as nomads well into the 20th century. In summer, they lived in the different hamlets above the villages of Zermatt, Täsch and Randa before returning to their villages at the beginning of winter. Your visit is welcome and you can enjoy a moment of quiet and reflection.

The history and information about the individual chapels can also be found online: www.zermatt.ch/en/kapellen

Mountain Biking
The destination is the single-trail paradise at the foot of the Matterhorn. There are more than 170 km of tours to suit all levels. They are great fun, but also challenging, depending on your ability or sporting prowess. All of this at an altitude between 1,400 m and 3,100 m with larch and Swiss stone pine forests, with mountain restaurants for a stop to eat and enjoy the mountain panorama. For pros, pleasure riders and families with children. Everything includes pure alpine air in car-free Zermatt.

Those who would like to improve their technique can sign into a bike school. Anyone looking for unknown trails takes a guide who leads to the most beautiful trails. Providers let out quality bikes and specialised hotels and holiday apartment owners look forward to bike guests.

Information for special bike tickets are on page 102.

Golf
In summer, the Golf Club Matterhorn is where golf is played on the greens of the new 9+ hole course near Randa. Each hole has two different teeing areas. If one plays the course twice, the result is an 18-hole score. The course is on the valley floor with an open view of the Breithorn (4,164 m). The highest mountains in Switzerland tower left and right. In this alpine park landscape, guests and locals gather on the course, in the new clubhouse and restaurant with its outstanding cuisine and in the parking area. Distance to Zermatt: 5 km.

Climbing
Zermatt climbing routes are often reachable with a little effort, because the mountain railway companies offer travel to three mountain massifs. Simple pleasure climbing, demanding and energy consuming routes and naturally the Matterhorn, the mountain of mountains. Other possibilities: mixed tours in the snow, ice and rocks to the numerous four thousand-metre peaks.

The Riffelhorn (2,928 m) is the climber’s paradise bar none – good cliff face, beautiful view and reached in only 15 minutes by foot from the mountain station. Routes for 3 to 6 rope lengths with levels of difficulty between 4 and 6. In addition there are many climbing gardens with various routes available in Zermatt, Täsch and Randa.

For families and less skilled: the via ferrata Schweifinen. With or without a mountain guide. (see also p. 68)
